

LIBERTARIAN U.S. SENATE
CANDIDATE BUCKLEY EXPERIENCES
PEACEFUL TAX REVOLUTION IN ELLIJAY

Atlanta, June 20, 2008 – The Libertarian’s candidate for U.S. Senate, Allen Buckley, was in Ellijay, Georgia yesterday, where he met with Joe McCutchen and other members of a peaceful taxpayers revolution that is being planned in Ellijay. A rally is scheduled for Saturday at Poole’s Barbeque. The protestors are peacefully protesting property tax increases in Gilmer County with hopes that the revolution will spread throughout the country.

After Buckley met with numerous residents of Ellijay, Buckley said: “it is apparent from my meeting with numerous residents of Ellijay that a significant percentage of people in Ellijay are interested in a smaller government and less taxes. It is also apparent to me that the people with whom I spoke do not believe Saxby Chambliss or any Democratic U.S. Senate candidate will provide them with those things. The people are very enthused about the upcoming election in November.”

Mr. Buckley’s website is www.buckleyforsenate.com. He can be reached for comment at (404) 962-1042.